

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT CHA 2.0

We've taken Community Health Assessments to a whole new level—again. Check out the most recent updates and start telling better stories about health in your community today.

WITH THE PRESS OF A BUTTON,
YOU CAN:

Tell engaging stories about health equity and guide your partners to make an impact.

Shine light on critical social determinants of health.

Make data easy for anyone to access, understand and rely on.

CHA is CHAnging.

Get ready to dive into the most important factors of community health, including social determinants, and set a new standard for your Community Health Assessment. Powered by our data storytelling tool, Press™, the CHA 2.0 Board gathers key insights from a robust community data library made from trusted sources and helps you visualize all of the data you need to create a state-of-the-art CHA that's easy to share—and even more fun to explore.

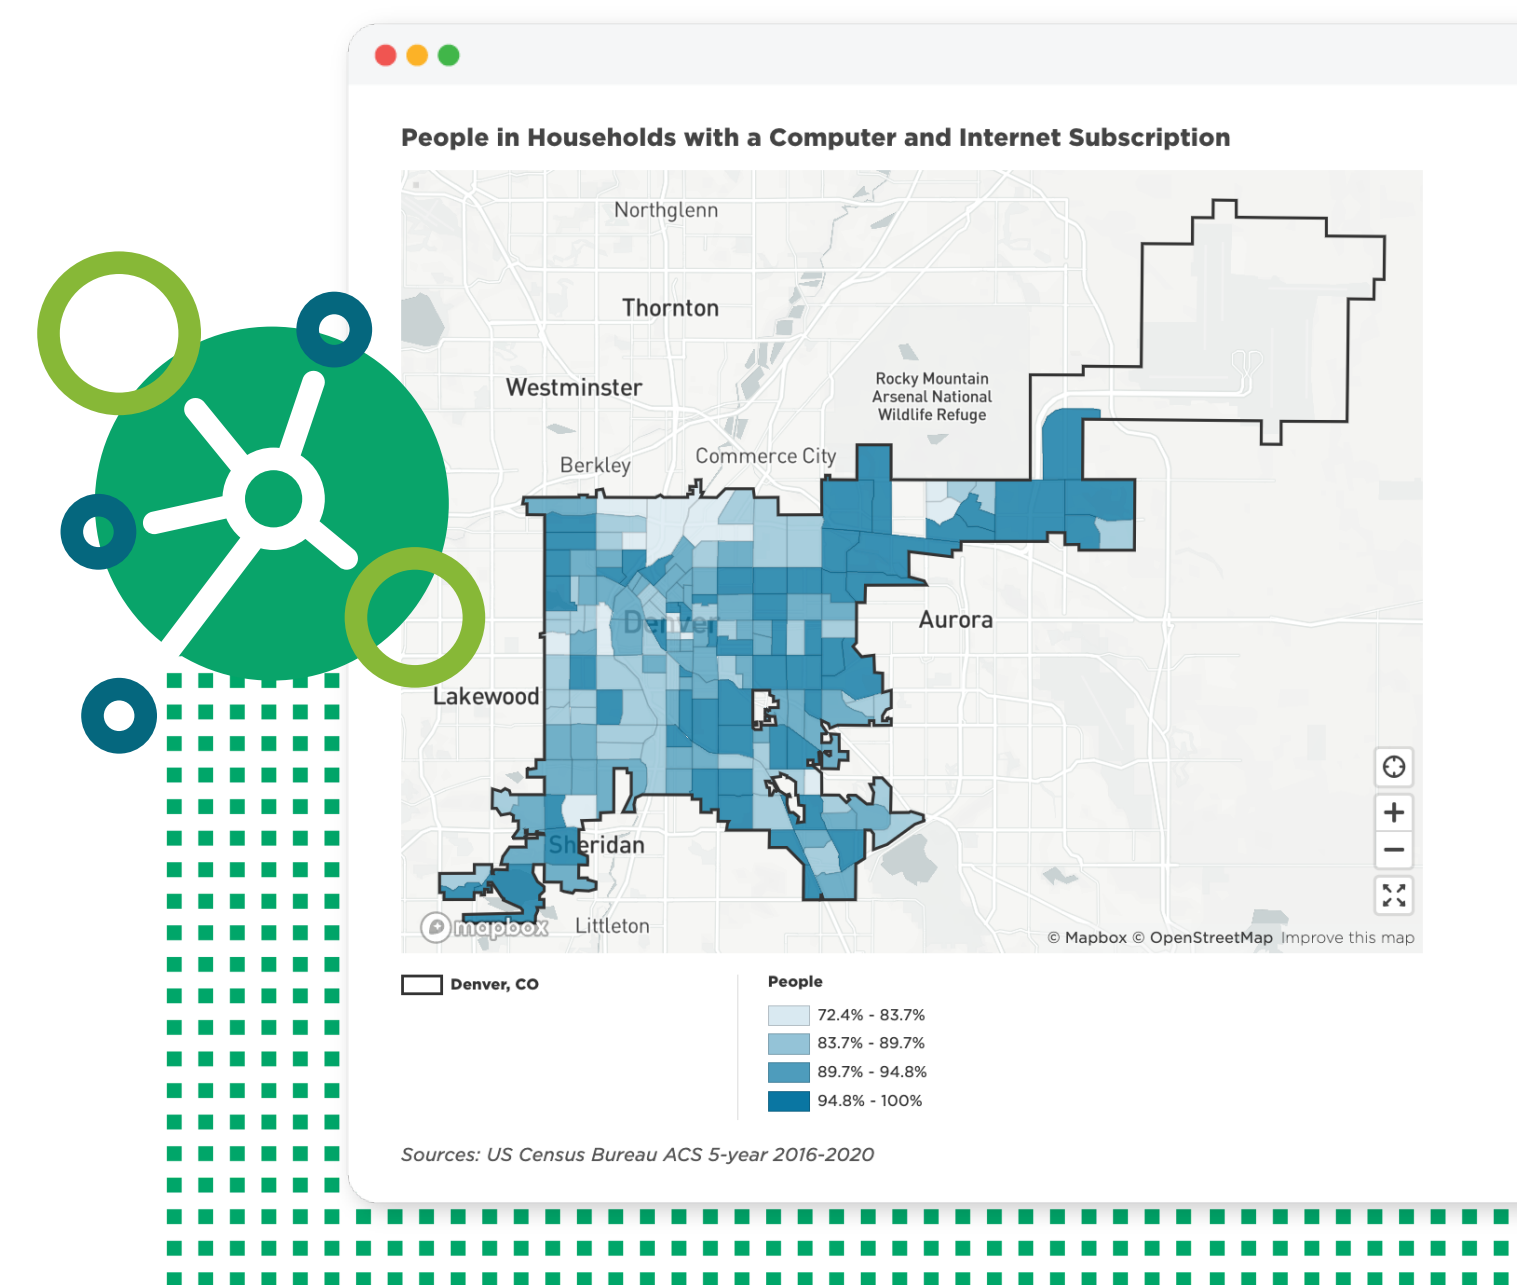

Uncover the most relevant indicators.

Perspectives on what's important for community health has evolved, especially over the last few years. With updated indicators that put things like the COVID-19 pandemic, our built environments, access to fresh foods, and mobility into context, CHA 2.0 gives you and your audience on-demand access to critical data that predicts health outcomes and ensures data is always current.

Share stories about equity.

How we talk about health matters, and we know not all health outcomes affect every community the same. mySidewalk's CHA 2.0 has been written with equity at the center and is accessible to all audiences, with numerous visualizations by age, race and ethnicity, and sex.

With easy sharing options, you can help anyone in your community understand the state of their neighborhood's health and become the go-to source for data on where resources are needed most.

Join a network of innovative communities.

Our original CHA was created alongside some of the best public health departments in the country. Since then, hundreds of communities have put their trust in mySidewalk, attended focus groups, and provided feedback to help us make CHA 2.0 the best solution on the market.
